From Russell's Commercial Gazette.

CALM REFLECTIONS on RASH PROCEEDINGS

THE violent proceedings of Virginia and Kentucky are very justly condemned. Sensible persons seem to be divided in opinion whether measures so manifestly mischievous and absurd are to be ascribed to the blind presumption of an assembly of silly people who do not foresee their tendencies, or to the predominancy of political knaves who intend to produce them.

For my part, I believe neither the one nor the other. It is an hundred to one, the Virginia assembly at least is composed of men tolerably well disposed and well informed—considerably inferior no doubt to Connecticut legislators, but deserving to be ranked infinitely higher than Cromwell's Barebone Parliament. It is probable Kentucky is yet semi-barbarian in its legislature, as in its morals, manners and literature. There cannot however be an absolute want of respectable assembly men even there, and still less in Virginia. She is indeed our elder sister, famous for her Washington, and other great men, and we are ready and willing to do her honor. The northern part of the state is sound, and in the southern they think themselves republicans, which is their very great mistake. We hope she will at last resume her good sense and do herself honor by her federalism. Various causes have no doubt concurred to diffuse and confirm the antifederalism of Virginia. Omitting state pride, the pride of great planters, the baneful influence of negro slavery, the sophistry of their literature, the excess of their dissipation, the want of a learned clergy, and the effect of the tiresome solitude of their lives, and a score of inferior matters which have all unluckily aided the antifederal evil spirit, the following deserve a principal notice—1st, the irritation produced by the mass of old British debts—2d, the inordinate ambition of Mr. Jefferson to be President—3d, and the singular democratic fanaticism or levellism of the aristocratic gentry of that state.

State laws protected debtors and their lands, and enabled bankrupts to live in splendor, defying creditors. The debtors were citizens, the great men of the state and legislators—the creditors foreigners, whom it was easy to load with the hatred borne to the British name. The federal constitution, prohibiting the states to clear off debts without payment,—by exacting justice, seemed in Virginia eyes to establish oppression. The lord of thousands of acres and hundreds of negroes saw his own degradation in federalism, and pronounced, probably sincerely believed, the equal reign of law and debt-compelling justice, the beginning of an insidious attack on liberty and the erection of aristocracy. Hence the declamation, equally passionate and shallow, against the Banks and Funding System, denominated the monied aristocracy. State laws must therefore be upheld, that they might still uphold the antient aristocracy of privileged debtors. In such a position of things as the peace of 1783 found or left the great Nabobs, nothing could be less welcome, or would seem more oppressive and detestable, than justice—Justice that by giving even Britons their own, would degrade, despoil and enrage those who will practise luxury and will not practise industry. Hence the clamor of the Virginians about equality, the last men on earth who ought to make it, or join in it.

To make Mr. Jefferson president, was Mr. Madison's first care, and that changed and soured his affections and opinions. There it was that the root of his antifederal bitterness was planted. His influence, almost unbounded in 1790 with the federalists of Virginia, was used to make them join him in his apostacy. No wonder a soil, so rank with the seeds of disaffection, was made by such cultivation to yield an ample harvest. It is an excuse, and candor will give it great attention, that the well disposed men in Virginia did not refuse their confidence to the new government, till they found its earliest and most distinguished friends had discovered their chagrin and disappointment in its measures, and their utter aversion to its chief officers; what could a federalist in Virginia think he ought to do but to turn his back on a government which its first and supposed best friends were at last ashamed to vindicate or support.

Finally, democracy seems with fanaticism as wild as the spirit of religious enthusiasm. The democratic zealots in the days of Oliver Cromwell, were as mad as the mock Saints. There is an extravagance in the politics of Virginia, that is epidemic with almost all who read, and with all who harangue. It is the fashion to carry popular principles beyond republicanism into wild democracy, and thus to bid farewell to common sense and experience. Those who are not rulers are angels, those who are, are devils. The schemes of their principal men and famous speakers, seem to be composed one half of principles too visionary and refined to be practicable—and the other half of an intemperate and impatient spirit that sees nothing but tyranny in wholesome legal restraint—They love liberty sincerely and with passion, and like other lovers they try their utmost to debauch and ruin their mistress. From all these causes, they are as yet very badly fitted to be republicans, they are democrats—they are as naturally antifederal, as Connecticut from its morals and manners is federal. Forgive Virginia and Kentucky, they know not what they do.

COMMUNICATION.

WHATEVER differences of opinion exist in other respects, the people of New-Jersey, are certain, that no man or set of men, will hesitate to adopt every measure calculated to cement the confederacy, support the government of the United States, and destroy foreign influence. It would be the most fatal and disgraceful dereliction of the interests of New-Jersey, for any man or body of men to neglect, or oppose these objects. There can be no doubt, that Virginia, Pennsylvania and New-York, (with some other members of the union, who are as yet hood-winked) are striving to break or at least to weaken, the hands of the confederate government. Equality of representation, of contribution, of sovereignty, of character, do not comport with the views of these ambitious states: hence proceeds all the hostility, which directly and indirectly, they are exciting, to ruin the federal government: while that maintains its ground, they can never oppress or usurp upon the smaller states; but, if by calumny, by threats, by opposition to its measures; if by traducing the men who conduct it, they can work upon the people to suspect or abandon it, their purpose will be accomplished; for, in that moment, when a majority of the State Legislatures, shall be brought to withdraw their support, and confidence from the general government, it will become insignificant, and soon fall to ruin. This is ardently desired, by a very enterprizing, cunning, and unprincipled coalition of men, in several of the states; and to effect their purpose they artfully take the ground of opposition to measures, and to men, affecting love for the confederacy, they attack, resist, and defeat, its necessary operations; thus endeavoring to render it a dead carcase, and to make it stink, and become offensive to the people. But the people of New Jersey, know too well how to appreciate their felicity, their security, and their importance, to be misled by this desperate faction The Legislature have now an opportunity, to display their sentiments effectually upon this subject and having dismissed, with merited contempt the scandalous resolutions of Virginia and Kentucky, they will next adopt the salutary proposition of the Legislature of Massachusetts for the exclusion of foreigners from the councils of the nation, and thereby evince to the world, that New-Jersey is determined to disappoint and defeat the views of the faction and to unite in every measure which will have a tendency to preserve the confederacy and support the government of the United States, as the rock of her political salvation.

IT is perhaps futile to expect to work conviction in the minds of so inveterate and vicious a class of men, as the Democrats of America, by any arguments however forcible, or any display of truth, however irresistible: These writings are, however, calculated to produce a more important and useful effect, by placing the subject in its true light before honest men, who are uninformed, or have been misinformed as to the nature and objects of those bills.

The following is the act of Congress, commonly called the Alien Law. It is published at this time, in order to answer numerous applications for it, and to shew how groundless have been the calumnies circulated against it.

Law of the United States.

AN ACT

Concerning Aliens.

Sec. 1. BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful for the President of the United States at any time during the continuance of this act, to order all such aliens as he shall judge dangerous to the peace and safety of the United States, or shall have reasonable ground to suspect are concerned in any treasonable or secret machinations against the government thereof, to depart out of the territory of the United States, within such time as shall be expressed in such order—which order shall be served on such alien by delivering him a copy thereof, or leaving the same at his usual abode, and returned to the office of the Secretary of State, by the marshal or other person to whom the same shall be directed. And in case any alien, so ordered to depart, shall be found at large within the United States after the time limited in such order for his departure, and not having obtained a licence from the President to reside therein, or having obtained such licence shall not have conformed thereto, every such alien shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three years and shall never after be admitted to become a citizen of the United States. Provided always, and be it further enacted, That if any alien so ordered to depart shall prove to the satisfaction of the President, by evidence to be taken before such person or persons as the President shall direct, who are for that purpose hereby authorized to administer oaths, that no injury or danger to the United States will arise from suffering such alien to reside therein, the President may grant a licence to such alien to remain within the United States for such a time as he shall judge proper, and at such place as he may designate. And the President may also require of such alien to enter into a bond to the United States, in such penal sum as he may direct, with one or more sufficient sureties to the satisfaction of the person authorized by the President to take the same, conditioned for the good behaviour of such alien during his residence in the United States, and not violating his licence, which licence the President may revoke, whenever he shall think proper.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, whenever he may deem it necessary for the public safety, to order to be removed out of the territory thereof, any alien who may or shall be in prison in pursuance of this act; and to cause to be arrested and sent out of the United States such of those aliens as shall have been ordered to depart therefrom and shall not have obtained a licence as aforesaid, in all cases where in the opinion of the President the public safety requires a speedy removal. And if any alien so removed or sent out of the United States by the President shall voluntarily return thereto, unless by permission of the President of the United States, such alien on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned as long in the opinion so of the President, the public safety may require.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That every master or commander of any ship or vessel which shall come into any port of the United States after the first day of July next, shall immediately on his arrival make report in writing to the collector or other chief officer of the customs of such port, of all aliens, if any, on board his vessel, specifying their names, age, the place of nativity, the country from which they shall have come, the nation to whom they belong and owe allegiance, their occupation and a description of their persons, as far as he shall be informed thereof, and on failure every such master and commander shall forfeit and pay three hundred dollars, for the payment whereof on default of such master or commander, such vessel shall also be holden, and may by such collector or other officer of the customs be detained. And it shall be the duty of such collector or other officer of the customs, forthwith to transmit to the office of the department of state true copies of all such returns.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the circuit and district courts of the United States, shall respectively have cognizance of all crimes and offences against this act. And all marshals and other officers of the United States are required to execute all precepts and orders of the President of the United States issued in pursuance or by virtue of this act.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for any alien who may be ordered to be removed from the United States by virtue of this act, to take with him such part of his goods, chattels, or other property, as he may find convenient; and all property left in the United States, by any alien, who may be removed, as aforesaid, shall be, and remain subject to his order and disposal, in the same manner, as if this act had not been passed.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That this act shall continue and be in force for and during the term of two years from the passing thereof.

FROM EUROPE.

We have seen a letter from a gentleman at St. Ubes, dated December 2d—which says, "We have little news here—The report is, that Buonaparte has been defeated in Egypt, and his head sent to the Grand Turk."—This letter came by the Venelia, from Lisbon.

The Pickering, Lt. Com. Prebble, and the Herald, Lt. Russell, will sail immediately for the West-Indies.

CONGRESS,

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Tuesday, February 12.

Mr. Livingston presented a petition from a number of aliens, natives of Ireland, resident within the United States, praying for a repeal of the alien law, which, having been read, he moved to have it referred to the same committee of the whole to whom had been referred the petitions heretofore presented against the alien and sedition laws.

Mr. Sewall objected to this reference. He said he held in his hand a motion, which he had several times, in the course of the morning, risen to make, in relation to petitions of this kind. He could not now make the motion, but would offer it as a reason why he should vote against this motion. It has all along appeared to him that these memorials would have been better referred to a select committee, than to a committee of the whole.. As the subject of these petitions was the order of the day, he had intended, in order to save time and prevent unnecessary discussion, to have moved to discharge the committee of the whole from a farther consideration of these petitions, with a view of afterwards referring them to a select committee. Indeed he thought it important, whatever might be the result of the business, that an opportunity should be afforded of shewing to the house, and to the Union at large, the nature of the complaints made against those laws, from whence, and from whom they came. Some of these memorials, it was seen were presented by aliens, who not only complain of the alien law, but other acts of Congress, to which our citizens make no objection; and who, it is clear, said Mr. S. do not aim so much at obtaining a repeal of the alien law, as by complaining of the government of the union, to spread a seditious spirit through the country. How far this was the case, he could not precisely say, but if the business was referred to a select committee, they would of course, examine the merits of these petitions, and report their opinion thereon to the house. He hoped, therefore, the present reference would not be agreed to.

Mr. Nicholas hoped the gentleman from New-York would withdraw his motion, in order to make way for the gentleman from Massachusetts. He had listened to the petition which had been read, and did not hear any thing in it but what related to the case of the petitioners; but he thought they had gone farther into a discussion of our constitution, than was necessary for their purpose. He did not wish the petitions of our citizens to be blended with this.

Mr. Livingston had no objection to withdraw his motion, at the same time that he must say, the objections to this petition are wholly without foundation. The object of these petitions is to obtain a repeal of a law which is pointed at them, and at no other persons. And when aliens pray for a repeal of the alien law, shall we say to them, "You shall not use arguments which you think will induce us to repeal the law?" Certainly not. He would, however, withdraw his motion, as he did not wish to confound this petition with the petitions of the citizens of the United States.

Mr. Sewal then made his motion, "that the committee of the whole to whom has been referred sundry memorials for the repeal of the Alien and Sedition acts, be discharged from a farther consideration thereof, and that the same be referred to a select committee to consider and report their opinion thereon to the house."

After a debate which occupied the whole of the sitting, the question was taken by Yeas and Nays as follow:

A correspondent observes, that no Newgate bird, who had received the highest honors of the Old Baily, ever exhibited more trick and cunning, than was displayed by the learned Doctor, during the examination of himself and his accomplices before the Mayor on Sunday.—Cummens, who seems to be a young hand, answered unadvisedly to the name of James Cummens. The Doctor hastily whisper'd "you must not tell your name:" upon which James muttered, "fait my name is not James Cummens, for all one of your evidences has swo·n it." He was not however well enough schooled by the Dr. for, in the course of his examination, he confessed himself to be Samuel Cummens.

Capt. Bainbridge informs that when he left Guadaloupe the following vessels were cruizing to Windward:

United States Frigate, commanded by commodore	Barry
Constellation	Capt. Truxton
Montezuma sloop of war	Murray
Norfolk	Williams
Richmond	Barron

That in consequence of scarcity of provisions at Guadaloupe, a general exchange of prisoners had taken place between the British and French, and 'tis supposed was the reason for sending off the Americans. Capt. Bainbridge, after 47 days confinement, was obliged to take charge of the Retaliation and leave the place.

The Insurgent Frigate was out on a cruize and had sent in one prize, a vessel from New-Bedford to Surinam, her trial not come on; the frigate Volunteer was expected to sail on a cruize in two or three days. The frigate La Pance had sailed for France, having on board prisoners Victor Hughes and several officers his adherents, charged with a conspiracy against the new agent Desforneaux.

Several condemnations had taken place from the arrival of Desforneaux to the departure of V. Hughes.

The Retaliation spoke on the 2d instant the sloop Romeo, of Charleston, from Martinico to New York and a schooner from Martinico to Baltimore, who informed that they had left St. Kitts the 20th ultimo in company with several others, under convoy of the Montezuma and Norfolk.

The gentleman who landed at Cape May on Monday from the Retaliation, is only charged with the exchange of Prisoners.

WHEREAS,

BY an Act of Congress passed on the sixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety eight, the President of the United States is authorised to borrow on behalf of the United States from the Bank of the United States, or from any other body or bodies politic or corporate, or from any person or persons, and upon such terms and conditions as he shall judge most advantageous for the United States, a sum not exceeding five millions of dollars, so however, that no contract or engagement be made which shall preclude the United States from reimbursing any sum or sums borrowed at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of such loan. And whereas, it is declared by the said Act, that so much as may be necessary of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, shall be pledged and appropriated for paying the interest, and also for paying and discharging the principal sum or sums of all the monies which may be borrowed, according to the term or terms which may be fixed, pursuant to the authority aforesaid—And whereas by the said Act, the faith of the United States is pledged to establish sufficient permanent Revenues for making up any deficiency that may hereafter appear in the provisions before-mentioned for paying the interest and principal sums, or either of them, of any monies which may be borrowed pursuant to the said Act. And whereas the President of the United States did by an Act or Commission under his hand dated the ninth day of January in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine, authorise and empower, the Secretary of the Treasury, to borrow on behalf of the United States, any sum not exceeding in the whole, five millions of dollars and to make such contract or contracts as should be necessary, and for the interest of the United States, in pursuance of the Act of Congress above recited.

Now therefore, the undersigned, Secretary of the Treasury, in pursuance of the Act of Congress, and the authority from the President of the United States, above mentioned, doth hereby on behalf of the United States of America, contract and engage in manner following, to wit.

1st. A book for receiving subscriptions to a Loan of five millions of dollars for the use of the United States shall be opened in the city of Philadelphia, at the Bank of the United States on Thursday the twenty eighth day of February ensuing, which book shall continue open for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, until the whole of the said five millions of dollars shall be subscribed. If more than five millions of dollars shall be subscribed on the first day of opening the said loan, the surplus shall be deducted in proportion to the sums subscribed by individuals, exceeding four thousand dollars.

2d. For every hundred dollars which may be subscribed there shall be forthwith deposited and paid the sum of twelve dollars and fifty cents, and like payments of twelve dollars and fifty cents, shall be made within the first ten days of the months of April, May, June, July, August September and October ensuing. The Secretary of the Treasury however reserves the right of reducing the number of installments by special agreements, with the individuals who may become subscribers.

3d. On the failure of payment of any installment of the sums subscribed according to the tenor of the second article, the next preceeding installment of twelve dollars and fifty cents, which shall have been paid, for every hundred dollars subscribed shall be forfeited to the United States.

4th, The sums subscribed shall and may be paid to the credit of the United States, at the Bank of the United States, or at the offices of discount and deposit of the said Bank at Boston, New-York, Baltimore, or Charleston, or at either of the Banks of Salem, in Massachusetts, Newport and Providence in Rhode-Island, Hartford in Connecticut, Albany in New-York, or Alexandria in Virginia, for which payments, the receipts of the Cashiers of the Offices of Discount and Deposit and of the Banks aforesaid shall be received at the Bank of the United States as equivalent to money; but no payment of a subsequent installment shall be received at any other place than that where the first installment was paid, except at the Bank of the United States; in case any deposits shall be made at the offices of Discount or Deposit, or at either of the Banks aforesaid, which shall not be applied to the payment of the first installment of subscriptions to the Loan aforesaid, the said deposits shall be forthwith refunded by directions from the Treasury.

5th. For the sums or number of shares of one hundred dollars, which may be subscribed, certificates shall be given by the Cashier of the Bank of the United States, which shall be assignable by indorsement, and delivery of the parties in whose favour the said certificates may be issued, until the completion of the payments required by the tenor of the second article preceeding.

6th. The sums subscribed and paid in pursuance of the tenor of the second article preceeding, shall after the said payments have been compleated, constitute a funded capital stock divisible into shares of one hundred dollars each, which capital stock shall bear interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the times fixed for the payment of the respective installments payable quarter yearly at the Treasury of the United States, or at the Loan Offices where the same may stand credited, until the last day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eight.

7th. After the last day of December in the said year one thousand eight hundred and eight, and after reasonable notice to the creditors, which shall be given by an advertisement in some public newspaper, printed at the seat of the government of the United States, the said capital stock shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States by the reimbursement of the whole sum or sums borrowed, and which may constitute the said capital stock either at the treasury of the United States or at the loan offices where the same may stand credited.

8th. The credits for the said capital stock shall and may be separately certified in sums either for one hundred, four hundred, one thousand, four thousand or ten thousand dollars, and the credits so certified shall be transferable by the creditors, or their attornies, at the Treasury and Loan Offices respectively, in pursuance of the rules which have been, or which may be established relative to the transfer of the funded stock of the United States,

9th. A sufficient sum of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them, by law, together with the faith of the United States are hereby pledged for the fulfillment of this contract, in pursuance of, and according to the terms and conditions of the act of Congress herein before recited.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Treasury of the United States at Philadelphia, this twelfth day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine. (L. S.)

OLIVER WOLCOTT,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Is there an American, young or old, not interested in the History of the first Rise and Progress of his native Country, and from so celebrated a pen as that of Doctor Robertson?

Just Published,

AND TO BE SOLD BY

JAMES HUMPHREYS,

No. 59, south Third street, opposite the Bank of the United States,

(Price one dollar neatly bound and lettered, in boards, six shillings)

Dr. Robertson's History of

(BRITISH)

AMERICA,

Containing

The history of Virginia to the year 1685, and the history of New-England to the year 1652, being what the Doctor had completed previous to his death. It has lately been given to the public with a preface by his son at Edinburgh, has already passed through three or four editions, and has been translated and published in French at Paris.

Mr. Robertson in his preface observes,

"During the course of tedious illness, which he early foresaw would have a fatal termination, Dr. Robertson at different times destroyed many of his papers: But after his death, I found that part of the History of (British) America which he had wrote many years before, and which is now offered to the public. It is written with his own hand as all his works were; it is as carefully corrected as any part of his manuscripts which I have ever seen; and he had thought it worthy of being preserved, as it escaped the flames to which so many other papers had been committed. I read it with the utmost attention; but, before I came to any resolution about the publication, I put the MSS. into the hands of some of those friends whom my father used to consult on such occasions, as it would have been rashness and presumption in me, to have trusted to my own partial decision. It was perused by some other persons also, in whose taste and judgment I have the greatest confidence: by all of them I was encouraged to offer it to the public, as curious and interesting in itself, and not inferior to any of my father's other works."

The Editor of the Paris Edition apostrophizes the above work in the following manner.

"Every thing ensures success to this volume the talents and reputation of the author, and the impression still recent in the minds of all who have read the excellent work of which this is the completion—all conspire to give it an extensive spread. The history of America was the master-piece of one of the two ablest, or rather one of the two only modern historians. He has created this part of history, distinguished this chaos of the New World, distinguished with the hand of a master the part of genius, fortune, courage and crime, and conquered as it were, America, for literary, commercial, and political Europe.

"To ensure this last volume circulation, it is necessary only to name its author, and to remark, it possesses all that acuteness of observation, that perspicuity of exposition, the art of referring effects to causes, and of mingling with the account of events, the wholesomest and most approved priciples of morals and politics, for which this writer was so eminently conspicuous—In short, that it exhibite the talents of ROBERTSON."
